The Chicago Hyde Park Village

Chicago Hyde Park Village is a membership based organization: a caring community of neighbors, with activities and access to services dedicated to helping members stay in their own homes as they age.

As a member, you can enjoy the freedom of living independently with help from the Village to maintain your security, safety, social connections, and activities so important to health and wellbeing.

One call brings the Village to you. Neighborhood professionals and volunteers can assist you with transportation, simple household chores, reassuring check-ins, savvy computer help, and reliable, vetted services.

The Village attracts new and old neighbors. You probably know quite a few of them already! As a member, you'll meet new people, renew old friendships, volunteer in areas important to you, and enjoy numerous opportunities to learn, explore, and enjoy life in the company other adults who never stop expanding their horizons.

We're interested in your interests.

You're invited to add your favorites to those already enjoyed by our members:

- pot-luck suppers
- trips to museums, galleries, concerts, and plays
- book discussion groups
- exercise classes
- photography and needlework groups
- driving skill refresher classes
- language clubs and dining groups.

Why is the Village charging fees? Villages, like all enterprises, whether for-profit or not-for-profit, need money on hand to keep their doors open. CHPV gets as much as possible donated, but it is not possible to get everything donated. CHPV uses membership fees to pay the rent on our office, telephone, printing and copying, insurance, vetting fees for volunteers, and other costs related to Village activities. In addition, we feel it is essential for our Village to have paid staff in order to run smoothly. Membership fees will guarantee that we can pay staff and all associated payroll and unemployment taxes.
